End of Year Christmas Special December 2009

Yes, it's hard to believe another year is over already and that it's also the end of the 'noughties' as 2010 and a new decade looms large ahead – and with it the coming of a brand new CA Gen release in the form of CA Gen r8. However, before all the excitement begins we'd like to firstly wish you all a very Merry Christmas in 2009 and a very successful New Year.

IET globetrotting to the EDGE

IET have been busy jet-setting around the globe during the recent Edge conference season in October and November. We were once again proud to support the conferences as sponsors at the EMEA event held in Amsterdam, the EDGEucate event in Plano, Texas and at our very first attendance at the EDGE APAC event in Canberra, Australia.

As ever, it was good to meet old friends and make a few new ones too. We presented our regular product update, highlighting the main features in our latest GuardIEn 7.8 release and ran our popular IET User Group meetings - all of which were very well attended. At EMEA and EDGEucate we also provided some hands-on product Labs to enable attendees to see and use the latest GuardIEn features.

The conferences were also extremely useful as preparation for the CA Gen r8 beta programme that we are now actively involved with across the various Gen platforms – and provided us with invaluable information as we plan and develop the GuardIEn 8.0 release that will support CA Gen r8 at launch in 2010.

IET recently launched a number of Service Packs for the supported GuardIEn releases of GuardIEn 7.6 (SP7), 7.7 (SP4) and the latest 7.8 (SP1) release. We recommend installation of these latest releases as they contain important product enhancements and maintenance.

The Release Notes are available from the IET website here

As we have done for a number of years now instead of sending cards we are donating the cost of Christmas card postage to our local community Hospice, Dorothy House.

...and a Window with correct Modality

by E.J. Bean (nearly 8)

Many of the GuardIEn windows are now resizable via use of IETeGUI. So, if you cannot see a particular field or list box column it may simply be that the window itself or the columns within it need to be resized.

Ah well. We've already reached the end of this mini-edition of SpotLIET – have a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New 2010!
